DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 4 and 6-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Miska (6,449,891) in view of Curtin (5,000,543).

Miska discloses a display having fold lines 38C, 40C that enable the display to be folded into a free-standing three dimensional display having a flat face panel (see Figs. 7-9); and a lenticular printing 46 disposed on at least one section of the flat face panel. However, the display disclosed by Miska is not a detachable portion of a page insert that is bound as a page into a printed publication. Curtin teaches that it was known in the art to provide a display as a detachable portion of a page insert that is bound as a page into a printed publication (see Fig. 13), including a perforated detachment line 80. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to attach the display disclosed by Miska to a binding attachment portion, as taught by Curtin, in order to enable distribution of the display in a magazine.

Regarding claim 6, the lenticular printing is inclined at an angle of 90 degrees from the horizontal.

Regarding claims 7 and 8, it is not known whether the lenticular printing is printed directly onto the display or affixed by adhesive. However, both methods were known in the art, and the selection of either of them would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made as a choice in design.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 5 and 9-12 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

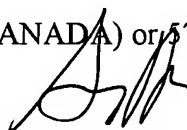

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
